

Confidential application or technology note

Centellax has written a number of application and technology notes that are confidential. These notes contain proprietary information that we prefer to share explicitly, and we require a non-disclosure agreement to review the information.

Confidential application notes include:

- AN04 – MMIC amplifier low-frequency gain flattening networks

Confidential technology notes include:

- TN03 – MMIC amplifier low-frequency extension

Please contact Centellax application engineers at support@centellax.com for additional information.